

Dear Cousin,

I hope this letter finds you in good spirits. I sit down to ~~write~~ write this email, ~~to~~ hoping to catch up on the recent events in your life. Considering ^v the fact that your summer break is about to start, you must be feeling quite content and delightful. The decision of ~~whether~~ to how to spend your ^v ~~2~~ ^{upcoming} holidays is integral, and equally ^v confusing. I hope to relieve you of your burden and help solve the dilemma.

One of the most ^v renowned ways to spend your summer break is by travelling to different ⁱ areas and countries. This can prove to be quite beneficial as it allows the person to take a break from the continuous, exhausting studies. Students can relieve their stress by visiting areas filled with mother nature, ⁱ ~~this~~ ^{which} refreshes their minds and uplifts ^{their} mental health. Moreover, ^p touring new places can provide a greater exposure to different ~~at~~ cultures and traditions. You get the opportunity to interact with various new ⁱ individuals, making new friends and countless memorable moments. Interacting with others is not only fun, but also widens the horizon of your thoughts.

In addition to this, ^p travelling on your own, or with your friends, boosts self-confidence and self-dependence. You learn to manage schedules and finances on your own, which has long-term ⁱ impacts on your practical life. However, extensive travelling requires a large amount of money. This can have an impact on your family's financial standings and resources. Many believe that saving this money for later can be more beneficial. Using this money could potentially improve the quality of education later on.

On the other hand,

Some people prefer spending their vacations at home, indulging in various activities and volunteer work. This can also have a positive impact on your university life, you can gain by gaining experience and developing integral skills. Working in family business or getting a part-time job can help individuals establish contacts and expand their social circle. They also learn and improve their communication skills, while having an opportunity to spend more time with their families.

Working at a job can also help you earn money, that can be saved or used as you please. In addition to jobs, as well as jobs, students can also partake in various activities around the neighbourhood.

In my opinion, travelling to different places and experiencing new culture is a more effective way to spend your summer break. While staying at home and working at jobs can help you gain experience, travelling allows you to enjoy your life while learning life skills. You can even prevent yourself from being a financial burden to your parents by using budget friendly ways to travel around ~~to~~ your country. I hope you pay heed to my advice and find this ^{email} letter useful. Wishing you the best & most wonderful times.
